Therapeutic jurisprudence and criminal law practice: A judicial perspective – Michael S King
New court processes introduced through specialist or problem solving court programs such as drug courts, family violence courts, Aboriginal courts and alternative sentencing regimes have required a different approach to judging and legal practice to meet these courts' therapeutic objectives. Therapeutic processes used in such courts are also being applied in mainstream cases in criminal, civil and family law. This article discusses the principles of therapeutic criminal law practice from the perspective of a judicial officer seeking to maintain a therapeutic environment in a problem solving court and who applies therapeutic jurisprudence principles in general court lists. This article emphasises the need for the development of interpersonal skills, a broad knowledge of the interdisciplinary issues surrounding offending, a sensitivity as to the impact of court and other legal processes on a client's wellbeing, and the need for ongoing training for lawyers who take a therapeutic approach to their practice.	12
Australian counter-terrorism offences: Necessity and clarity in federal criminal law reforms – Gregory Rose and Diana Nestorovska
This article analyses the wide-ranging reform of Australian criminal law related to terrorism. It compares the definition of terrorism utilised in recent legislation to the emerging international standard and tests the new federal crimes against the criteria of legislative necessity and clarity. It concludes that the reforms were in fact necessary in the sense of filling prior gaps and inadequacies in the criminal law but that some of the new provisions lack clarity and will pose conundrums for law enforcement.	20

- This journal complies with the Higher Education Research Data Collection (HERDC) Specifications for peer review. Each article is, prior to publication, reviewed in its entirety by a suitably qualified expert who is independent of the author.

Style

- 1 Levels of headings should be clearly indicated (no more than four levels).
- 2 Cases:
 - Case citation follows case name. Where a case is cited in the text, the citation should follow immediately rather than as a footnote. Give at least two and preferably all available citations, the first listed being the authorised reference.
 - Australian citations should appear in the following order: authorised series; Lawbook Co./ATP series; other company series (ie CCH, Butterworths); media neutral citation.
 - “At” references should only refer to the best available citation, eg: Mabo v Queensland [No 2] (1992) 175 CLR 1 at 34; 66 ALJR 408; 107 ALR 1.
 - Where only a media neutral citation is available, “at” references should be to paragraph, eg: YG v Minister for Community Services [2002] NSWCA 247 at [19].
 - For international cases best references only should be included.
- 3 Legislation should be cited as follows:
Trade Practices Act 1974 (Cth), s 51AC. The full citation should be repeated in footnotes.
- 4 Books should be cited as follows:
Macken JJ, O’Grady P, Sappideen C and Warburton G, The Law of Employment (5th ed, Lawbook Co., 2002) p 55.
 - In footnotes do not use ibid or op cit. The following style is preferred:
 4. Austin RP, “Constructive Trusts” in Finn PD (ed), Essays in Equity (Law Book Co, 1985).
 5. Austin, n 4, p 56.
- 5 Journals should be cited as follows:
Odgers S, “Police Interrogation: A Decade of Legal Development” (1990) 14 Crim LJ 220.
Wherever possible use official abbreviations not the full name for journal titles.
 - In footnotes do not use ibid or op cit. The following style is preferred:
 6. Sheehy EA, Stubbs J and Tolmie J, “Defending Battered Women on Trial: The Battered Woman Syndrome and its Limitations” (1992) 16 Crim LJ 220.
 7. Sheehy et al, n 6 at 221.
- 6 Internet references should be cited as follows:
Ricketson S, The Law of Intellectual Property: Copyright, Designs and Confidential Information (Lawbook Co., subscription service) at [16.340], <http://subscriber.lawbookco.com.au> viewed 25 June 2002. Underline the URL and include the date the document was viewed.
