Out of the mouths of babes: The case for an increased use of expert evidence in rebuttal of sexual abuse allegations by child witnesses – Ian R Coyle, David Field, Paul Wilson, Catherine Cuthbert and Glen Miller
When the “whole truth” of a matter is not sought, miscarriages of justice occur. When legislative and administrative procedures interact to prevent the whole truth of a matter being sought, miscarriages of justice are all but guaranteed. In this article, the authors argue that the common law and legislative and procedural frameworks against which allegations of child sexual abuse are investigated in Australia preclude the whole truth of the matter being sought, even though it may be wanted. Well-meaning attempts by legislators to shield vulnerable witnesses from aggressive and hectoring cross-examination on behalf of the alleged offender, and to facilitate the full reporting of child sexual abuse has, it is argued, had inimical and unintended consequences.	139
The status of using drug detection dogs under Australian law – Dan Meagher
In recent years it has become increasingly common for drug detection dogs to be active in and around public transport, busy nightclub precincts, music festivals and dance parties. However, the legal status of police using drug detection dogs is anything but clear in many parts of Australia. The aim of this article is to outline the nature and scope of the powers available to police at common law and under statute that allow their use.	165

Peer review

- This journal complies with the Higher Education Research Data Collection (HERDC) Specifications for peer review. Each article is, prior to acceptance, reviewed in its entirety by a suitably qualified expert who is independent of the author.

Style

1. Levels of headings must be clearly indicated (no more than four levels).
2. Unpointed style is to be used – there are no full stops after any abbreviation or contraction.
3. Cases:
 - Where a case is cited in the text, the citation follows immediately after the case name, not as a footnote.
 - Authorised reports must be cited where published, and one other reference can be used in addition.
 - For “at” references use media-neutral paragraph numbers within square brackets whenever available.
 - For international cases best references only should be used.
4. Legislation is cited as follows:
 - Trade Practices Act 1974 (Cth), s 51AC (including in full within footnotes).
5. Books are cited as follows:
 - Ross D, Ross on Crime (3rd ed, Lawbook Co, Sydney, 2006) pp 100-101.
 - In footnotes do not use ibid or op cit. Repeat author surname and add footnote reference to first mention.
 - ¹ Hayton D, “Unique Rules for the Unique Institution, The Trust” in Degeling S and Edelman J (eds), Equity in Commercial Law (Lawbook Co, Sydney, 2005) p 284.
 - ² Hayton, n 1, p 286.
6. Journals are cited as follows:
